

Quaker Peace & Social Witness

Putting Quaker faith into action

Peacebuilding

We work with partners across the world to generate real change in regions that are often badly affected by violence.

We empower and support nonviolent organisations seeking alternative solutions to violent conflict.

A safer world

We stand alongside other peace organisations in our call for disarmament and against militarism. We advocate a peacebuilding approach to security.

Our work equips Quakers, campaigners and government to bring about positive changes in policy.

Peaceful classrooms

Conflict is normal but violence isn't. We equip Quakers to bring this key message to young people. We offer advice and training on peace education. We empower young people to realise their power as individuals to make a difference.

Repairing the harm

Justice should be compassionate, forgiving and healing – restorative, not retributive.

We promote restorative justice because it provides the opportunities for healing for victim, offender and community.

And we support Quaker prison chaplains who offer support and friendship to prisoners of all faiths and none.
