This workshop is for those in Quaker meetings that do not currently have engagement with children and wish to consider what they can do to be ready for children coming to meeting.

The cost of the workshop is £5 per person payable on the day. All participants should bring a packed lunch.

The aims of the workshop are:

- To encourage participants to think about and share why they want children to come to meeting and what they want to achieve with their engagement with children
- To enable participants to think about what their meeting needs to do to be ready to welcome children
- To equip participants with what they need to know to be ready to welcome children
- To help participants to identify what steps they need to take in order to encourage children to come to meeting and to be ready when this happens

By the end of the workshop participants will have:

- articulated what it is that would make their children's meeting distinctly Quaker
- identified actions that their meeting needs to take in order to be ready for children
- devised a session that can be ready for when children arrive at meeting and have thought about the physical space that this would happen in
- created an action plan to progress their meeting's readiness for children

Timing, booking information and venue:

The day starts with refreshments at 10.15am and ends at 4pm. We invite Friends to take part and ask that each person uses the booking form as places are limited. No places are available on the day without prior booking. We will confirm final details with you one week before the workshop. The workshop takes place at Stoke on Trent Meeting House; directions will be included in the final mailing.
