

Re CYP training induction

Thanks for filling in the Quaker Life Network CYP training offer of service form. As per my previous email to you we would very much like to take up this offer. We have enclosed the role outline for this so that you can be reminded of what you offered for.

Before becoming a 'proper' CYP trainer there is an induction process to enable you to be prepared and ready to facilitate a workshop. This normally consists of three things:

- Observing a CYP training session.
- Participating in the CYP trainers residential.
- Meeting with one of us to confirm readiness and complete a volunteer agreement for this work.

All CYP trainers have a set of the CYP resources (so that they have these to hand when facilitating workshops). You may well have lots of this already but we have enclosed a pack of stuff for you to keep on hand so you have a handy set to have when facilitating training. This includes the CYP resource catalogue, if there are any further resources in this that you'd like to add to this pack please be in touch with Thais (cyadmin@quaker.org.uk 020 7663 1013) and ask to be sent these. Also all CYP trainers receive paper copies of both editions of Journeys in the Spirit.

We have already added you to the CYP trainers' group email, so from now on you should receive these. This will mean that you will receive the emails asking for people to offer to take on workshops that have been requested as well as other information and updates.

You should register to join the CYP trainers Yahoo group as this is where you can find the various workshop outlines and other relevant information. To join the Quaker Life CYP training group simply copy this address into your email address bar cyptraining-subscribe@yahoogroups.com with the subject join. Click send and then await an automatic reply and follow the instructions in the email. Once the request has been received here in the CYP office and confirmed, you will then receive a second email and subsequently have access to the group.
