

War starts here, let's end it here

No Faith in War day

Join Quakers and other faiths for a day of action to resist the DSEI arms fair.

I survived two sniper shots, I crossed the deadliest path Karaj Al Hajez, and I lost my dad. I can't talk about all these memories without thinking, why weapons? Why did we invent them? Why are we still using and selling them?

Burhan, from Syria

Meeting for worship

Thursday 7 September, 1.00pm

East Gate of the Excel Centre, London, E16 IFR

(nearest tube: Prince Regent DLR)

People can gather at Friends House from 10.00am to 12.00pm and travel to the 1.00pm meeting together.

Meetings will also be held at 9.00am and 5.00pm.

Walking vigil & other events

Quaker Roots will lead a walking vigil around arms companies on Monday 11 September.

We will also lead Quaker worship on Tuesday 12 September – the opening day of DSEI and the Migrant Justice day of action.

For more information, visit www.quaker-roots.org.uk or email hello@quaker-roots.org.uk.

The law around protest has changed. Please make sure you are informed – visit www.greenandblackcross.org for information and training.

War starts here, let's end it here

Candlelit vigil against the arms fair

People of all faiths and none are invited to join a silent, candlelit vigil on the eve of the DSEI arms fair, in solidarity with victims of the arms trade.

Monday 11 September, 7.00–8.00pm
Royal Victoria Square, London, E16 1BD

Meet at Royal Victoria DLR station at 6.30pm to travel to the vigil together. There will also be an option to gather at Friends House in Euston beforehand.

Please make sure you arrive on time as the gates may be closed. Bring a candle and a container for it (a jar works well).

For more information, visit www.quaker.org.uk/events or email peace@quaker.org.uk or info@paxchristi.org.uk.

The law around protest has changed.

Please make sure you are informed – visit www.greenandblackcross.org for information and training.

