Foreword
1	The foreword provides a high level outline of the New Plan for Immigration, including reforms to make the system fair, but firm. Overall, how far do you support or oppose what is being said here? Please refer to the foreword of the New Plan for Immigration to support your answer to this question.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li><input type="radio"/> Strongly support</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Tend to support</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Neither support nor oppose</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Tend to oppose</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Strongly oppose</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Don't know</li> </ul>
Chapter 1: Overview of the Current System This question relates to the Overview of the Current System in the New Plan for Immigration, should you wish to refer to this before answering.
2	The UK Government is committed to building an asylum system that is firm and fair, based on three major objectives: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• To increase the fairness and efficacy of our system so that we can better protect and support those in genuine need of asylum.</li> <li>• To deter illegal entry into the UK, thereby breaking the business model of criminal trafficking networks and protecting the lives of those they endanger; and</li> <li>• To remove more easily from the UK those with no right to be here.</li> </ul> How effective, if at all, do you think each of the following will be in helping the UK Government achieve this vision? Please select one response for each statement. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>A. Strengthening safe and legal routes for those genuinely seeking protection in the UK.</li> <li>B. Reforming legal processes to ensure improved access to justice.</li> <li>C. Reforming legal processes to ensure speedier outcomes.</li> <li>D. Requiring those who claim asylum and their legal representatives to act in 'good faith' by providing all relevant information in support of their claim at the earliest opportunity.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li><input type="radio"/> Very effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Fairly effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Not very effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Not at all effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Don't know</li> </ul>

	E. Enforcing the swift removal of those found to have no right to be in the UK, including Foreign National Offenders. F. Eliminating the ability for individuals to make repeated protection claims to stop their removal, when those follow-up claims could have been raised earlier in the process. G. Preventing illegal entry at the border, for example, by making irregular channel crossings unviable for small boats or deterring other activities such as hiding in the back of lorries.

Chapter 2: Protecting those Fleeing Persecution, Oppression and Tyranny

3	The Government is reviewing safe and legal routes for protection claimants to enter the UK. Further details of this can be found in Annex A. The intention of the UK Government is to maintain clear, well-defined routes for refugees in need of protection, ensuring refugees have the freedom to succeed, ability to integrate and contribute fully to society when they arrive in the UK. In your view, how effective, if at all, do you feel each of the following proposals will be in ensuring the Government can provide safe and legal ways for refugees in genuine need of protection? Please select one response for each statement. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Maintaining a long-term commitment to resettle refugees from around the globe to the UK, including ensuring a full range of persecuted minorities are represented.</li> <li>• Granting resettled refugees immediate indefinite leave to remain on their arrival in the UK so that they benefit from full rights and entitlements when they arrive.</li> <li>• Reviewing the refugee family reunion routes available to refugees who have arrived through safe and legal routes.</li> <li>• Ensuring resettlement programmes are responsive to emerging international crises – so refugees at immediate risk can be resettled more quickly.</li> <li>• Working to ensure more resettled refugees can enter the UK through community sponsorship, encouraging stronger partnerships between local Government and community groups.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li><input type="radio"/> Very effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Fairly effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Not very effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Not at all effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Don't know</li> </ul>
-----------------	--	--

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Introducing a new means for the Home Secretary to help people in extreme need of safety whilst still in their country of origin in life-threatening circumstances.</li> <li>• Enhancing support provided to refugees to help them integrate into UK society and become self-sufficient more quickly.</li> <li>• Reviewing support for refugees to access employment in the UK through our points-based immigration system where they qualify.</li> </ul>
Safe and legal routes including Family reunion for unaccompanied asylum seeking children These questions relate to the separate information sheet (Annex A) on safe and legal routes including family reunion for unaccompanied asylum seeking children. Please refer to this sheet for more information.
4	The Government recognises the importance of reuniting those who are in the UK who are in genuine need of protection, with their family members. How important, if at all, do you think each of the following proposals would be in meeting this objective? Please select one response for each statement. Reuniting an adult with refugee status in the UK with... <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Their spouse or partner, wherever their spouse/partner may be in the world.</li> <li>• Their own child who is under the age of 18, wherever their child may be in the world.</li> <li>• Their own adult child who is over the age of 18, wherever their child may be in the world.</li> <li>• A close family member (e.g. sister, brother), wherever that family member may be in the world.</li> <li>• Another family member (e.g. uncle, aunt, nephew, niece), wherever that family member may be in the world</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Very important</li> <li>○ Fairly important</li> <li>○ Not very important</li> <li>○ Not at all important</li> <li>○ Don't know</li> </ul>
5	Now that the UK has left the European Union (EU), protection claimants who have sought international protection in an EU member state can no longer join family members in the UK using EU law. This means those seeking international protection in the EU must apply to join family members in the UK under the Immigration Rules like those from the 'rest of the world'.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Strongly agree</li> <li>○ Agree</li> <li>○ Neither agree nor disagree</li> <li>○ Disagree</li> <li>○ Strongly disagree</li> <li>○ Don't know</li> </ul>

	To what extent do you agree or disagree with this approach to apply the same policy to protection claimants seeking to join family members in the UK, regardless of where they are?

Chapter 3: Ending Anomalies and Delivering Fairness in British Nationality Law These questions relate to chapter 3 of the New Plan for Immigration. Please refer to this chapter for more information.
11	How effective, if at all, do you feel the following changes will be in contributing to the objective of correcting historic anomalies in current British Nationality law? Please provide an answer for each statement. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Introducing new registration provisions for children of a British Overseas Territories Citizen (BOTC) to acquire citizenship more easily.</li> <li>• Fixing the injustice which prevents a child from acquiring their father’s citizenship if their mother was married to someone else.</li> <li>• Introducing a new discretionary adult registration route to give the Home Secretary an ability to grant citizenship in compelling and exceptional circumstances where there has been historical unfairness beyond a person’s control.</li> <li>• Creating further flexibility to waive residence requirements for naturalisation in exceptional cases. This will mean those impacted by Windrush are not prevented from qualifying for British Citizenship because they were not able to return to the UK to meet the residency requirements through no fault of their own.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li><input type="radio"/> Very effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Fairly effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Not very effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Not at all effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Don’t know</li> </ul>
Chapter 4: Disrupting Criminal Networks and Reforming the Asylum System These questions relate to chapter 4 of the New Plan for Immigration. Please refer to this chapter for more information.
12	To protect life and ensure access to our asylum system is preserved for the most vulnerable, we must break the business model of criminal networks behind illegal immigration and overhaul the UK’s decades-old domestic asylum framework. In your view, how effective, if at all, will the following proposals be in achieving this aim?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li><input type="radio"/> Very effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Fairly effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Not very effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Not at all effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Don’t know</li> </ul>

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Ensuring that those who arrive in the UK, having passed through safe countries, or have a connection to a safe country where they could have claimed asylum will be considered inadmissible to the UK’s asylum system.</li> <li>• Seeking rapid removal of inadmissible cases to the safe country from which they embarked or to another third country.</li> <li>• Introducing a new temporary protection status with less generous entitlements and limited family reunion rights for people who are inadmissible but cannot be returned to their country of origin (as it would breach international obligations) or to another safe country.</li> <li>• Bringing forward plans to expand the Government’s asylum estate. These plans will include proposals for reception centres to provide basic accommodation while processing the claims of inadmissible asylum seekers.</li> <li>• Making it possible for asylum claims to be processed outside the UK and in another country.</li> </ul>
13	To protect the asylum system from abuse, the Government will seek to reduce attempts at illegal immigration and overhaul our domestic asylum framework. In your view, how effective, if at all, will the following proposals be in achieving this aim? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Changing the rules so that people who have been convicted and sentenced to at least one-year imprisonment and constitute a danger to the community in the UK can have their refugee status revoked and can be considered for removal from the UK.</li> <li>• Supporting decision-making by setting a clearer and higher standard for testing whether an individual has a well-founded fear of persecution, consistent with the Refugee Convention.</li> <li>• Creating a robust approach to age assessment to ensure the Government acts as swiftly as possible to safeguard against adults claiming to be children and can use new scientific methods to improve the Government’s abilities to accurately assess age.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li><input type="radio"/> Very effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Fairly effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Not very effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Not at all effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Don’t know</li> </ul>

Chapter 5: Streamlining Asylum Claims and Appeals These questions relate to chapter 5 of the New Plan for Immigration. Please refer to this chapter for more information.
14	The Government wants to ensure the asylum and appeals system is faster, fairer and concludes cases more effectively. The Government’s end-to-end reforms will aim to reduce the extent to which people can frustrate removals through sequential or unmeritorious claims, appeals or legal action, while maintaining fairness, ensuring access to justice and upholding the rule of law. In your view, how effective, if at all, will each of the following intended reforms be in achieving these aims? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Developing a “Good Faith” requirement setting out principles for people and their representatives when dealing with public authorities and the courts, such as not providing misleading information or bringing evidence late where it was reasonable to do so earlier.</li> <li>• Introducing an expanded ‘one-stop’ process to ensure that asylum claims, human rights claims, referrals as a potential victim of modern slavery and any other protection matters are made and considered together, ahead of any appeal hearing. This would require people and their representatives to present their case honestly and comprehensively – setting out full details and evidence to the Home Office and not adding more claims later which could have been made at the start.</li> <li>• Considering introducing a ground of appeal to the First Tier Tribunal for certain Modern Slavery cases within the ‘one-stop’ process.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Very effective</li> <li>• Fairly effective</li> <li>• Not very effective</li> <li>• Not at all effective</li> <li>• Don’t know</li> </ul>

This will be for cases that are deemed to be manifestly unfounded or new claims, made late. This will include late referrals for modern slavery insofar as they prevent removal or deportation.</li> </ul>

Chapter 6: Supporting Victims of Modern Slavery

These questions relate to chapter 6 of the New Plan for Immigration. Please refer to this chapter for more information.

16	The Government believes there is a need to act now to build a resilient system which identifies victims of modern slavery as quickly as possible, and ensures that support is provided to those who need it, distinguishing effectively between genuine and vexatious accounts of modern slavery. In your view, how effective, if at all, will each of the following intended reforms be in achieving these aims? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Improving First Responders’ understanding of when to make a referral into the National Referral Mechanism (NRM) and when alternative support services may be more appropriate.</li> <li>• Clarifying the Reasonable Grounds threshold.</li> <li>• Clarifying the definition of “public order” to enable the UK to withhold protections afforded by the NRM where there is a link to serious criminality or risk to UK national security.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Very effective</li> <li>○ Fairly effective</li> <li>○ Not very effective</li> <li>○ Not at all effective</li> <li>○ Don’t know</li> </ul>

Chapter 7: Disrupting Criminal Networks Behind People Smuggling

These questions relate to chapter 7 of the New Plan for Immigration. Please refer to this chapter for more information.

17	Illegal immigration can cause significant harm and can endanger the lives of those undertaking dangerous journeys. It can also endanger those emergency service workers and Border Force officers who respond to illegal journeys such as those made by small boat. The Government is determined to introduce tough new measures to deter illegal migration by strengthening the protection of the UK's borders In your view, how effective, if at all, will each of the following intended reforms be in helping to meet this aim: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Introducing tougher criminal offences for those attempting to illegally enter the UK, (including raising the penalty for illegal entry from 6 months to 2 - 5 years).</li> <li>2. Widening existing powers to tackle those promoting or facilitating illegal migration, including raising the maximum sentence for facilitation to life imprisonment.</li> <li>3. Giving additional powers to Border Force including searching freight containers for immigration purposes, seize and dispose of any vessels and the ability to stop and redirect vessels from the UK where persons being conveyed are suspected of seeking to enter the UK illegally.</li> </ol>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li><input type="radio"/> Very effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Fairly effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Not very effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Not at all effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Don't know</li> </ul>

	4. Increasing the penalty to a maximum of 5 years in prison for Foreign National Offenders who return to the UK in breach of a deportation order. 5. Overhauling the Clandestine Civil Penalty Regime. 6. Implementing an Electronic Travel Authorisation (ETA) scheme to identify and block the entry of those who present a threat to the UK.
18	The Government proposes to legislate for and enforce an electronic travel authorisation (ETAs) scheme i.e., an application for permission to travel to the UK similar to the current process for countries like United States, Canada, Australia and New Zealand. If you have experience of applying for or engaging with travel authorisation schemes operated by other countries, what are your experiences of those schemes? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Mostly positive</li> <li>2. Equally positive and negative</li> <li>3. Mostly negative</li> <li>4. Not sure / don't know</li> <li>5. Chapter 8: Enforcing Removals including Foreign National Offenders (FNOs)

These questions relate to chapter 8 of the New Plan for Immigration. Please refer to this chapter for more information.

19	It is an essential responsibility of any Government to enforce and promote compliance with immigration laws, ensuring the swift return of those not entitled to be in the UK. The Home Secretary is also under a duty to remove any foreign national offender who has been served a sentence for an offence in the UK of 12 months or more. In your view, how effective, if at all, will each of the following reforms be in helping us to build on these principles? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Consulting with Local Authority partners and stakeholders on implementing the provisions of the 2016 Act to remove support from failed asylum-seeking families who have no right to remain in the UK.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li><input type="radio"/> Very effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Fairly effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Not very effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Not at all effective</li> <li><input type="radio"/> Don't know</li> </ul>

This would be in addition to any sentence for returning in breach of a deportation order.</li> <li>• Amending the list of factors for consideration of granting immigration bail and the conditions of immigration bail.</li> <li>• Placing in statute a single, standardised minimum notice period for migrants to access justice prior to enforced removal and confirm in statute that notice need not be re-issued following a previous failed removal, for example where the person has physically disrupted their removal.</li> </ul>
