

Penn Friends Minute Yearly Meeting 2019

Harriet

We are the Penn Friends. Our theme this weekend was caring and including. We started our weekend by coming up with ways that we could care for and include each other in our group.

Kyle/ Jared

We listened to a Godly Play story about war and why we should stop war. We made folders to organize everything we made this weekend and started our journals.

We had our first meeting for worship where we held objects to help us stay still and quiet.

In the afternoon we were visited by Paul Parker and we visited the park where we played parachute games and ball games. We saw a statue of Ghandi and learned about Ramadan. We made collages using objects found in the park with lots and lots of feathers and leaves.

In the afternoon we went to the library where we made posters and saw lots of books. We also went to the basement where we saw tiny books that belonged to Elizabeth Fry and a very old teddy bear and the book of sufferings.

We sang songs and played our shakers with the New Shoots and they shared their biscuits with us.

We heard a story about caring for our earth and saw an extinction rebellion protest from the window.

We completed our nominations process and decided on our writers and readers.

On Monday we made collages about the environment and tried Morris Dancing.
