

YRAES

The Young Rwandan Alumni ex-Students project is based in Rwanda and is supported by Watford meeting.

Forward Africa Education Trust (FAET) has provided educational opportunities for disadvantaged secondary school students in Rwanda since 2018 and this project arose as the result of a request from a former student. It will provide a forum where ex-students of FAET can mutually support one another when they have completed their education. Once students graduate, there is a risk of isolation due to limited professional networks, and few structured opportunities to give back or support one another. The purpose of this project is to counter these obstacles.

The grant will fund structured training and meetings for up to 65 ex-students, as well as providing a dedicated digital communication system.
